they favored a five percent cost of living increase for fiscal 1985, if funds permit. Members of the Finance Committee were cautious in their prediction for an increase by giving its recommendation for a four percent increase. Member Peter B. Hodges commented that the committee has not seen one department budget as yet, nor have they been notified as to what the receipts will be. Increases will have to be voted at the annual town meeting in May.

Beverly Posiviata, Personnel Board spokesperson, explained some of the problems existing within the board's job classifications, benefits, salaries and wage increases policies. She said, "Our hands are tied in many circumstances because of the wording in the by-laws. We are hoping to make them more concise and more equitable for the employee who started at a low wage, has performed well in his or her job and can't change grades."

She continued, "There are odd figures for per hour wages, such as tree warden, $6.07, and dog officer, $5.02. These should be made whole figures."

Mrs. Posiviata further explained that Mattapoisett is a "small business" and, as such, should be made to run more efficiently. She and sub-committee member Timmy-Ann Russell recommended hiring Jack Bills, a consultant, to revamp the Personnel Board's structure and to set it up as a small business. She noted that Bills, a former Mattapoisett resident, has done this type of work before and can see our problems. She said Bills gave her a cost figure of $3,500 for the job.

Mrs. Posiviata added that a revamp was done about nine years ago by board members who were executives of the Acushnet Company. She claimed their methods were based on "big business" policies. She added that the Personnel Board looked at comparable wages in New Bedford and found Mattapoisett to be well within the proper wage scale.

Selectman James Huntoon said he felt there weren't many major problems with the Personnel Board's policies. Mrs. Posiviata, however, claimed there have been some problems because a few employees are at their maximum and can't receive any more increases.

Speaking briefly, Michael O'Brien, chairman of the Finance Committee, said he doesn't feel we need a consultant and that the changes can be made with the cooperation of all the committees involved.

Board of Selectmen members were of the opinion that a better clarification should be made of part-time employees and those working full-time, seasonal jobs.

In other business, Selectmen:

RECEIVED a letter from Ralph Souza, Safety Director for the Medeiros Bus Company, requesting that Officer R. Stanley Ennis be commended for the great job he has done conducting bus evacuation drills for students in the Mattapoisett School System.

The safety director reported that on January 4th, while transporting a group of children from Old Hammondtown School to Somerset High School, it became necessary, because of smoke coming from the engine compartment, to have the children evacuate the bus from the Rear Door.

Souza's letter continued, "Immediately after the bus driver instructed the children to evacuate the bus through the Rear Door, the children, in an orderly manner, proceeded to leave the bus as Officer Ennis had taught them. There wasn't any panic, shoving or running, and the children got far enough away from the bus in case of a serious problem."

Souza said he felt assured that the children of Mattapoisett, under the training of Officer Ennis, will always know what to do in case of an emergency.

SELECTMEN AGREED to resolve the sale of the Grange Hall by accepting a $35,000 bid of Marc Goddu, owner of the Mattapoisett Inn. It was noted that Goddu's was the only bid received.

The acceptance was given with provision that Goddu receive approval from the Board of Appeals, the Board of Health and the Building Inspector. Selectman James Huntoon said Goddu will have 90 days in which to complete the arrangements to build the proposed apartments. Goddu wants to build six apartments. Also, Goddu has agreed to retain the outside historical aspect of the Town Counsel Donald J. Fleming will review the purchase and sale agreement, to be prepared by Goddu and his attorney.

On a similar matter, Selectmen noted they will have to find space to store the Recreation Department's equipment and will have to find a means by which they can dispose of the old items remaining in the Grange Hall.

AWARDED a contract to Carpet Mart, Inc. of Fairhaven, as the low bidder, to install carpeting in the Town Hall on the first floor and up the stairs to include the landing. The low bid of $2,686.50 will include the removal of the old carpeting. According to the contractor, the present padding is in good condition and does not need to be replaced.

Executive Secretary Carol Adams explained the same brand name and weight description was submitted to all bidders. B & C Floor Covering of Mattapoisett bid $3,211.50 and Joseph R. Arsenault of City Carpet Company, New Bedford, bid $2,886.50. Huntoon noted the board is obliged to go along with the low bid, especially as there were good reports on the work done by Carpet Mart. Chairman John DeCosta said that the owner, Wayne Vandal, is a Mattapoisett resident.

Roy conducts a marine business, where he molds boat keels. Complaints have been filed with the Selectmen since 1979 against Roy's failure to comply with the by-laws. Af-

Hint of the Month

A group of stains called "tannin" are often invisible until age (hanging in your closet) or the heat of processing turns the stain yellow or brown ... just like an apple cut open and exposed to air. Other possible invisible tannins are soda, tea, coffee, liquor and fruit juices. They all become difficult to remove with age. Bring your stained garments to us as soon as the mishap occurs, pointing out the problem areas.

included. Nevertheless, the book is valuable for anyone who wishes to consider the valid criteria used to decide which towns are included. It ought to be looked into by everyone who wishes to find a better place to live and by all who are sure they have found it, and would like to make it better. Someone has said "Home is where the heart is". The best town will be largely a subjective decision. However, objective considerations are important and do make a big difference. Here is a chance to learn what they are.

Those who know Lewis Thomas from his previous books, "The Lives of a Cell" and "Medusa and the Snail", will want to read "LATE NIGHT THOUGHTS ON LISTENING TO MAHLER'S NINTH SYMPHONY". He is a world famous biologist, lecturer, essayist, teacher and administrator. To read a page of one of his books is to learn something new and practical. Every essay is thought-stimulating, the one "Medicine and the Bomb", especially so.

Free Children's Concert

Surprise party favors will be distributed following the program.

The instrumental music for this occasion is made possible by funds supplied by the Recording Companies of America through the Music Performance Trust Funds, a public service organization created under agreements with the American Federation of Musicians.

MASS. ADVANCED STUDIES PROGRAM

The Massachusetts Advanced Studies Program will be held again this year at Milton Academy. MASP is open to juniors in all Massachusetts high schools who are nominated by their schools. Nominated students must show strong academic achievement and potential. Applications are read by review committees across the state. Final selections are based on "overall academic strength, ability in the subject area chosen, motivation and capacity for intensive self-directed learning". In addition, MASP seeks students on whom the program will have a significant impact. Last year 500 students applied for admission and 240 were accepted. According to the MASP, admission is highly selective.

The program provides six weeks of college level work in a boarding school environment. In addition, students receive college and career guidance. Students also have a full athletic program available and field trips to museums, plays and historical sights. The program allows

TWO ORR STUDENTS TO PERFORM IN DISTRICT BAND

The Southeast Massachusetts District High School Music Festival auditions were held October 25th. Two ORR students were selected this year to perform in the Southeast District Band. They are Julie Holden, Clarinet; and Laurel Tate, French Horn.

These students should be commended as the competition involves hundreds of instrumental and vocal students from the area.

Laurel Tate was also recommended to the All-State Festival.

Congratulations Ladies and Good Luck.

ORR Chess

WINS OVER NEW BEDFORD

The ORR Chess Team crushed an overconfident New Bedford team with a 5-0 shutout at Old Rochester. The match pitted two undefeated teams with the defending champion Bulldogs prevailing. Patient "openings", aggressive "middle games" and far superior "end games" typified each game in the match according to Mr. Cameron, the advisor. "The members are becoming more aggressive in their play and are developing a 'killer instinct' which was so prevalent in last year's undefeated team", said Mr. Cameron. Winning for ORR were: Aaron Sylvia, Bill Smirnov, Tom Shire, Erik Sylvia and Jeff Starechecki.

WIN OVER DARTMOUTH

The ORR Chess Team remains undefeated in Southeastern Massachusetts Conference Chess League with another "shut-out" (5-0) against Dartmouth High School on Monday, January 9th. The league schedule is at the halfway mark with the only blemish being a "draw" against Bishop Stang in the first match of the season.

The next match is against Bishop Stang January 17th and the Bulldogs plan to avenge their only miscue of the year. Winning for ORR against Dartmouth were: Aaron Sylvia, Tom Shire, Bill Smirnov, Erik Sylvia and Tom Jackivicz.

FROM THE SOUTHEASTERN REGIONAL PLANNING AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT DISTRICT BULLETIN FOR WINTER 1983
ROUTE 6 VS FHWA

It appears that the recent success of Marion and Mattapoisett in convincing the Massachusetts Department of Public Works to restripe Route 6 could cost the state over $2 million. That amount was the federal share of the road reconstruction that the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) is now demanding a credit for.

At its November 2nd meeting, the Joint Transportation Planning Group (JTPG) voted to send a letter to Walsh objecting to his Professor Rassias' theory and technique of teaching foreign languages is so effective that it has become "the Rassias method". It involves the provocative stimulation of all the studen's faculties: sound, sight, smell, and emotion, all for the purpose of becoming fluent in a foreign language in the shortest possible time. By the end of 10 days beginners have a vocabulary of 1,000 words.

Under a grant from Exxon 58 colleges and universities have sent representatives to Dartmouth to be trained in "the Rassias method". His goal is to teach students to function in a foreign language as sensitive human beings after only 10 weeks of instruction.

Every second year Rassias takes his students to France for the ten-week semester. At the end of that time he throws the names of unknown French villages in a hat, according to an article in Yankee magazine.

"I drop students in pairs into a village without money, extra clothing, connections -- nothing -- and tell them to come back after three days with all the political, economic, social, and cultural workings of that village at their fingertips."

Rassias was appointed to the president's Commission on Foreign Languages and International Studies in 1978. He served as director of language programs for the Peace Corps from 1964-68. He has received such honors as les palmes academiques from the French government. And he has been

WALK THIS SUNDAY

On Sunday, January 22nd, the Lloyd Center for Environmental Studies is offering a walk on one of the Dartmouth Natural Resources Trust properties. The walk begins at the Lloyd Center at 1:30 p.m. with an introduction to the Trust's properties. The walk will last about two hours.

The Dartmouth Natural Resources Trust owns and operates the Lloyd Center for Environmental Studies. In addition, the Trust's mission of land conservation and education is met by accepting donations of land or restrictions on parcels all within the Town of Dartmouth. Thirteen properties are under conservation restriction to the Trust while eighteen properties including the Lloyd Center are owned outright. These properties include wetlands, salt marshes, upland forests, ponds, streams, and fields. Properties are owned or under restriction in both North and South Dartmouth. Some of these properties are open to the public for walking or observing wildlife. Several are described in the book Walks in Dartmouth available at the Lloyd Center.

Walks on DNRT properties are offered each month by Lloyd Center staff and volunteers. Walks to date have been on one twenty acre property in North Dartmouth and on two properties located near Appon-

Arts Fellowship

The Artists Foundation, Inc. is accepting applications from visual artists from now until March 1, 1984 for the 9th annual Massachusetts Artists Fellowship Program. Any artist who is a Massachusetts resident, 18 years or older, and not enrolled as a student, is eligible to apply for the $5,000 fellowships. Funds for the Massachusetts Artists Fellowship Program are provided by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Applicants must demonstrate a high level of accomplishment. Visual artists submit up to ten 35mm slides of recent work; video artists submit up to an hour of tape for review. In each field, a separate panel comprised of distinguished, out-of-state artists reviews the applicants' work and selects the Fellowship winners solely on the basis of the excellence of the work reviewed.

later, our shores are playing host to the building of the latest graceful lady, the schooner "Spirit of Massachusetts". Like her ancient ancestor, the "Spirit" is being created to serve her people, the youth of the Commonwealth and the entire region as ambassador, symbol and sister of all Tall Ships.

One hundred and twenty-eight feet long, her keel is being laid and her powerful frames erected at the old Charlestown Navy Yard, one pier north of the country's beloved "Constitution". You can catch a quick glimpse of her from the Tobin Bridge ramp. This is our ship, supported solely by private contributions. In the weeks to follow, we will talk about every aspect of the "Spirit" and the many activities around her, from conception to launching, purpose to ports-of-call. The "Spirit" means adventure for everyone in the Commonwealth, and beyond.

The "Spirit" project began in 1979 when the New England Historic Seaport, under Henry Dormitzer's direction, saw and lamented the lack of sail training programs for New England youth in what old-timers used to call "a proper vessel". Of course, many excellent sailing and racing programs are offered by yacht and boat clubs, and splendid windjammer experiences are available to adults with the inclination. No real school ship, however, exists in the public domain of the sort that builds on our heritage of maritime character and that, in other nations, actually provides nurseries for naval and merchant marine officers. So, the Seaport began its school ship program in leased vessels, teaching lessons along the Eastern Seaboard, across the Atlantic and around Baltic shores.

Enthused by the success of these voyages, but stymied by the expense of leasing, Dormitzer determined that the Seaport should have its own ship, a real vessel of wood anchored thoroughly in the tradition of New England sailing but benefiting from a modern understanding of naval architecture and safety. 1982 the Seaport commissioned Melbourne Smith, designer and builder of the "Pride of Baltimore", to design and draft the lines of the "Spirit of Massachusetts", which is now being framed at the Charlestown Navy Yard. She is scheduled to be completed in time for the Donald McKay Festival next June.

Activities on and around the ship will be described in coming installments of this series. For now, we feel fortunate that she exists and has a future in which we can all share.

problems that local governments will face in the 1990s and beyond. The conference, whose theme is "tune in to the future", will originate in Washington, D.C., with satellite transmissions to all parts of the nation. Local participation in the conference will take place at Southeastern Massachusetts University from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days in the SMU Library, which is equipped to receive satellite communications.

Called Telecon '84, the conference, according to its organizers, is "an exciting program for local government officials preparing to move into the 21st century. It is an opportunity for local leaders to interact with leading experts who will be discussing megatrends that will affect communities throughout the United States during the next 25 years." Local participants will not only be able to hear and question these speakers on the two-way system but also join in regional discussions with colleagues from nearby communities who face similar challenges for the future.

The moderator in Washington for both days will be Neal Peirce, columnist on state and local government themes with the Washington Post writers' group.

On January 20th societal trends will be discussed by John Naisbitt, author of the bestseller Megatrends and publisher of The Trend Report; Daniel Bell, a leading analyst of social trends, author of The Coming of Post-Industrial Society, and Henry Ford II, professor of social science at Harvard University; Joseph Coates, formerly assistant director and head of exploratory research at the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment; and Hazel Henderson, economist and author of Creating Alternative Futures.

trends for local governments will be Richard Fulton, mayor of Nashville and president of the U. S. Conference of Mayors; and Sylvester Murray, city manager of Cincinnati and president of the International City Management Association.

Goals, programs, and long-term planning efforts to deal with these implications will be discussed by Clement Bezold, director of the Institute for Alternative Futures; and Robert Theobald, lecturer and writer on the future.

The March 9th conference will focus on ways by which local governments can examine the future with special emphasis on strategic planning. On the panel will be Dan Malachuk, partner in Arthur Young & Company.

Telecon '84 is presented through the Urban Institute of the University of North Carolina in cooperation with the U. S. Conference of Mayors and the International City Management Association.

The conferences at SMU are co-sponsored by SMU's Arnold M. Dubin Labor Education Center and Center for Research and Business Activity in cooperation with Mayor Brian J. Health Views

If You Are Going To Shovel Snow, Be Careful

There's nothing prettier than a new-fallen snow—nothing more dangerous either.

Each year, we hear about the numerous heart attacks and strokes that occur as the result of overexertion. The tragedy of the fatal or near-fatal result of an apparently healthy person succumbing to shoveling snow tends to overshadow a hazard that is even more common.

The same snow which causes heart stress also causes dangerous spinal disc stress to the shoveler. When you consider that a shovel of snow weighs 5 to 7 pounds, you realize the tremendous accumulative weight one has to lift to clear an area. The average driveway or walk will hold hundreds of pounds of snow.

Snow seems to present a challenge to most shovelers; the cold air invigorates them to action; and, the same cold air numbs their sense of pain and fatigue, thereby masking the severity of sprain and strain. The result: too much exertion and too much work without rest breaks.

Doctors of chiropractic, who are specialists in helping patients with back problems, recommend the following rules to guard against the snow-shoveler syndrome:

1. Dress warmly, but don't bundle up so as to make it difficult and awkward for you to move naturally.
2. Use a lightweight pusher-type shovel. Spray it with Teflon so snow will not cling to it.
3. Try not to lift the snow or pitch it. Merely push it into a pile.
4. Avoid sudden twists of the torso. Move the entire body.
5. Keep your back straight when you lift. Use your legs rather than your back.
6. Work slowly.
7. If you feel tired or short of breath, stop and take a rest. Stand up straight and breathe deeply.
8. If you feel a twinge of back pain, stop completely and go inside the house, sit down and rest. If pain persists, see a doctor of chiropractic immediately. With snow, it's wiser to use the head, instead of the back!

Under chiropractic care, a patient is either treated or referred after a comprehensive differential diagnosis.
